“ I went to see you on Friday. I hope you could hear me. I sat in the rain for about an hour telling you how we are all doing. It was as if you were there holding up the second half of what I had to say. As hard as it is to not see you, I still feel like you are here with me. I like that. The church put you name up on the wall in the garden where we laid you to rest. Its simple but beautiful just as you would want. I miss you terribly and will always remember you for all that you were. Love Greg

“ Mom.... I still can't believe you are gone. I keep waiting for you to walk into the room and ask why we are so sad. You always knew how to make people smile. You are strong, brave, loving, kind and always put everyone else ahead of yourself. You had several struggles in your life but pushed through and won everytime. I guess that's why this is so hard, we all thought this was just one more of your hurdles and you would get through this one too. You have always been someone I looked up too and I want to raise my girls like you raised me. I miss you everyday and I know they say time heals but, I don't think I will ever get over you being gone. I can't pick up the phone to ask a question about being a good mom, or how you were feeling that day. I love you Mom and miss you.

“ Mom, I'm comforted by the fact that you're no longer suffering, but you left us too soon. It feels so strange to be a part of planning your memorial service, but I wouldn't have wanted it any other way. I will continue to try to do right by you and make you proud. I love you and will forever miss you. Your favorite daughter-in-law, Carrie

“ Dear Karen and family, Our heart felt condolences go out to you and your family during this very difficult time. Moms are the most special gift to us, as I know your mom was to you all, just remember she has left behind the best part of herself in every one of you that will live on forever. Lots of hugs and prayers for you all during this time. The angels are always near to those who are grieving, to whisper to them that their loved ones are safe in the hand of God. ~ The Angels' Little Instruction Book by Eileen Elias Freeman, 1994

“ To the entire Law Family, days have passed since Barbara received "her wings" and I just have to send this message along. Although I didn't get to know her very well, I do know Mark, and what a fine man he is. Ever since he was a young man, his family meant everything to him. Now he has a beautiful wife and two adorable girls, who I am positive, brought your Mom so much joy. How lucky she was to have you near her for so many years. Now your Dad will carry on that special family part, always carrying her love in his heart. I know there will be days when you miss her so much, but you all are a strong family....always have been. We're here whenever you need us. Love, the Carruthers
