I want to pass on my condolences to you all and I am glad this service was available via webcast. It was a very touching service and even though I did not know Christopher personally I got to know him through you all. God bless you all and remember he will be watching down over you. “ When you guys made that ditch in the back yard and I almost fell in. Or when he got the bearded dragon cc and I was scared to pick her up till Chris told me she wouldn't hurt me. Or the time he threw a dead squid on my face. All the times we would walk in meadow wood farms or go in the woods there was a tree that was down and everyone was walking all on it and he knew I was scared I would fall so he held my hand and said he got me. Or all the times mom would yell at us cause he would draw on my leg. Or when he was on the Playstation and I begged him to let me play and he had me thinking I was really playin till I realized I wasn't all he could do was laugh. Or at carney Island. Chris would pull me under the water , let me on his back or helped me catch minos.

“ When my son was born he weighed 11 pounds 2 oz and 23 in long .He was the size of a 3-month-old. I always loved cuddling up against him. I called him I my little cuddly teddy bear. Even as a little boy growing up, he was definitely a meter he didn't care too much for vegetables or any sides, but give him up plate of chicken or something and he was really happy. He would always make some kind of little pose that would be so cute to watch and I always had a big smile. How has he got older he really hated the heat. He always would say let's move to Alaska. And he was always carrying a toothpick around in his mouth, but unfortunately sometimes you would find it on the floor after you stepped on it and boy did that hurt. But he always would be helping somebody out, even sometimes when he really didn't want to he would. He had a big loving caring heart. We will all miss him and love him forever and ever.
