“ I remember looking up to David when I was a kid because he was my Karate hero. I loved martial arts as a kid and to have a big brother who was a master at it was awesome. He showed taught me some techniques but above all he wanted me to learn what karate was truley about heart and discipline. I just thought when he walked on his hands, was the neatest thing! You will be truley missed by me and I regret not having spent more time with you. I love you brother!!!!!!

“ Nothing can erase the memories I have in my heart for you son. You were a blessing to me with Joey and Jimmy. You made me laugh and you were a positive influence on the boys when they were little. I will never forget that you were "The little guy" as your Be-Pop would always fondly call you. Your personality will always be loved and remembered. Yes we had bad times and good times but we all worked through them and only the good I can feel now. As you are with our Savior. Tell him we love Him too!! You will be missed and I cherish our last conversation together. I love you son and I miss you. Mama-step

“ You will be missed son. You were a good guy and we shared many wonderful times with you and the children. You will be missed but we have good memories that will last my lifetime. It was good that we shared the same trade and had stories to tell each other. You had knowledge that I did not have and I had knowledge that you did not have. We will miss you. God Bless your beautiful children. Love you man, Bill

“ There are not enough pages to tell how much David means to me and my family. His absence is just about as hard as our father's passing, eight years ago. The joy in this whole thing is only in knowing that he is not really dead as the world thinks he is, but, that he is alive in Christ Jesus, walking side by side today with his LORD and Savior Jesus Christ, who he proudly confessed to me on many occasions before I re-dedicated my life to Christ. I remember last year when I called him to see how his health was. He was so happy to hear from me, yet bummed out that I lived so far away now. I explained to him in excitement that I rededicated my life to Christ and that is when he went through the roof and was telling me how much he loves Jesus and how he would never deny Him, ever. I prayed with him and explained how much we missed him. It was the best conversation and call I ever had with him. David was the best big brother I will ever have. He took care of me when I was a little guy. He changed my diapers, scared me to death from time to time and was there to protect me whenever I needed him to. We even shared bunk beds together and yes, he always got the top! I always looked up to David. He is a role model for me and taught me a lot about how things should be. There is so much of who he is in me today, only because he took his time to share his knowledge with his little brother. He loves his nieces and nephews so much and really poured into them when they came to visit him from time to time. Now, to comfort them in this time, I explained that before Jesus ascended to heaven, He told His disciples that He must go and prepare a place for them... I said, "Kids, if you think about it, He had to prepare a lot of places for all God's children and because David was a carpenter too by trade, He really needed his help!" They laughed and agreed. David is not the perfect person and he did not always set the best example all the time, but one thing is for sure, he loves his children, his grand child and his God, like nothing else. Now concerning his children; he just wants you to be happy and have your needs met. I know he wanted you to know Jesus and better than he ever really could have! He is a great father and don't forget that! Not a perfect one, but one who, while he walked this earth, knew his responsibilities and priorities and owned up to that high calling. I know he is your Daddy, my big brother and always will be and he taught me to be a good father too. Just remember all this as you think back... David is also like many of us are; he accepted Jesus Christ in his heart I believe back in 1999, perhaps many of us have that commitment to Christ in the past? Now maybe his walk of faith in Jesus Christ didn't quite measure up to Christ's standard, but whose does? All I know is that David Vardis loves Jesus Christ with his whole heart and confessed on many occasions to me back when I was back sliding, who Christ was and is and how much He meant to him. David, like me and my family today, is saved by the grace of God and the promise of His WORD and is in heaven now! He is not gone; he is just in a different time and place, waiting on His Creator, for His special hour to return to earth and take up His own. I will see you soon David, please tell Jesus we are ready and waiting and love you and Him so much. Your little brother, Joey Vardis

“ My family is deeply saddened to learn of the passing of Dave. This came as quite a shock to my father and myself. My father and Dave have been friends for about 15 years. Dave lived in the apartment above our family buisness in about 1995. What a wonderful "Full of life" man Dave is.....He will truly be missed!!!!
