“ Her laugh.. THAT'S what I'll miss the most...thru the years we've shared moments that we have doubled up, lost our breath, had tears in our eyes, wet our pants and just HOWLED with laughter...Denise could find humor in almost anything...I loved having lunch with her via computer...a set time, a set date and a shared lunch 100's of miles apart...and peals of laughter...God bless my Denise...she was so loved and will be SO missed but how grateful I am to have had her as I did...

“ Denise was such an inspiration to me. I always looked forward to her posts. She admired the beauty in this world and shared with her face book friends. She was so strong and brave through everything she was dealing with, this was such a help in dealing with my husbands illness. She truly was an angel, and I regret I did not get to meet her in person. But hope to see her again someday! My heart goes out to all her family and friends because she will truly be missed. I am glad she isn't suffering or ill or having to deal with all those treatments any longer.

“ Same folks think you can't be friends with someone you have never seen in person, not true. Denise and I hit it off the first time we chatted on face book and I will never forget the encouragement she gave me thru the worse time of my life . Every day she would check on me to see if I was OK, while she was fighting for her own life. she is a true Angel now and I know she will always be looking down over all of us !!! love you girl ...Rest now ..

“ I cannot find the words to express how much I will miss you. I can only find it within me to post something that I can relate to. We always had a private relationship which it's always been: YOU & ME, (I know now,that's what sister's are for) I will cherish everything about US until the day we meet again... Denise, you always told me "I LOVE YOU MORE" and I always got the last words in: "I LOVE YOU MOSTEST!!" Death leaves a heartache no one can heal, love leaves a memory no one can steal. (Anon)
