“ I remember living with my great-grandmother at a young age in Maryland. My development as a person has a lot to do with her teachings. She taught me how to tie my shoelaces and how to fold napkins. Walking across the street and holding onto her to get groceries. That's how I learned to look both ways before crossing the road. I especially remember doing Bible study on Saturdays. I have no other words to say but I hope that she is resting peacefully

“ It was a pleasure knowing you and spending time with you and I am thankful for the support you provided. My fondest memory of you was when I visited you in the Islands. You always had food prepared for us. One day uiu said, "Young lady, you can go out but make sure you return home at a certain time, else you will be locked out. Well, I learned my lesson the night. It was an eventful memory which I can aughed about years later. Granny you did your best; you rest in peace. Until we meet again. You will be missed granny.

Love always

Dear Granny,

As I reflect on the cherished memories we shared, I am filled with an overwhelming sense of gratitude for the impact you had on my life. From the moment we first met, you welcomed me with open arms and a heart full of love. Though not bound by blood, you embraced me as your own grandchild, and for that, I am forever grateful.

Your presence in my life was nothing short of a blessing. While you may have been strict at times, your love and care for me were always evident. I recall the moment when you fought for me, setting boundaries and expectations because you wanted nothing but the best for me. Even when you enforced rules, your motive was always rooted in love.

I can't help but smile as I reminisce about the times you locked Paulette and I outside when we to heed your instructions...lol, lol. We slept on the porch 🌞🔥😓 Though it seemed stern at the time, I now understand that it was your way of teaching us responsibility and ensuring our safety. Your actions were always guided by a deep affection for us, your grandchildren.

Now, as I navigate the journey of motherhood myself, I find myself appreciating your lessons and wisdom more than ever. Your love and guidance have left an indelible mark on my heart, shaping me into the person I am.

Granny, your passing is unfortunate, but I take solace in knowing that you are at peace. I am grateful for the countless good memories we created together, and I will cherish them always. May your beloved soul rest in eternal peace.

*With alllll my love,
Kerby*

Mammy,

Your last words to me will remain everlasting. When I asked, "How are you feeling?", you said, "I'm here holding on." I said, that's great and that I thank you for trying." You responded with, "No, I should be thanking you for all what you're doing."

I didn't think it was necessary to thank me and I told you so. In my heart, I just wanted you to recover and be your feisty little self again. I realized that you were giving up and I prayed for a miracle by asking you to "Think only positive thoughts – any little thing you remembered that made you laugh or smile!" But I did not know your pain, nor could I control your mind.

To quote one of your sayings, "Yahweh knows best and there's nothing we can do when our time comes." I can say, Amen to that.

My effort to provide a safe, secure, and comfortable environment for you was not in vain. I witnessed a happier you when I relocated your household and told you, "I'm only minutes away when you need me." You let out a smile I never saw before and one I will not forget.

Rest in eternal peace dear Mammy, I will miss you dearly.

Mammy,

It's been years since we last saw each other until Paulina decided to take charge and brought me to Florida. Over the years, I thought I'd never see you again until we reunited in October 2019. I had no idea what was going on in your life until Paulina asked me to accompany her to Virginia, in March 2020, to move you to Florida in a home she purchased especially for you.

It saddened us to see what the second stroke had done to you, taking you away from your comfortable home into a care facility. Neither of us cared for that arrangement but Paulina had her hands full in caring for her son, your grandson, and my nephew who is bound to a wheelchair and in need of 24-hrs care.

I watched Paulina struggle and worry about your failing health. We both understood our limitations in caring for you and wished we had a magic wand to reverse your condition.

You always said that Yahweh knows best. And by that, I take comfort in knowing that you are, indeed, resting in peace.

Loving son, Dorian

Granny,

It saddens me to hear of your departure. Mom always said that she was sure you would get out of this funk. But we all understand that life is a mystery and passing is part of that mysterious process. I will miss you dearly, especially during Thanksgiving when Mom insists on your presence. Rest in peace, dear Granny.

Your Loving Grandson, Johnnel
