“ When I think of Uncle Frank today, I picture him sitting on Nanny and Poppy's blue couch under the window; offering a calm and soothing presence to the room. I can hear his laugh now which was guaranteed to make everyone smile. It always stood out to me how much he loved Aunt Gloria and his family, which was evident in all that he did. He lived a full, beautiful life. Uncle Frank will be missed by many.

“ We were very saddened to hear of Frank’s death. He was an extremely kind and gentle man who yet held his convictions and faith deeply. We’ve gotten to know him and Gloria over the years attending in the same Living Church of God congregations. He will certainly be missed! We look forward to seeing our friend and brother again when he awakens at our Elder Brother’s return. We are certainly praying for God's comfort and encouragement, Gloria, for you and your whole family at this difficult time. Rod McNair

“ I offer my condolences to Frank's family. I remember Frank with immense fondness from our school days at Connetquot High. He was always kind and sweet and through him I became close to his other siblings and his nurturing and loving parents. May he rest well until he hears the Father say, 'Well done my good and faithful one, welcome to the place where you belong..' In loving memory, Stacey Spisak Draves

“ We celebrate the life of a wonderful man--a man who meant so much to so many.

There was a nine-year age difference between my brother and me, but I have many fond memories of the childhood we shared. He was a great student, gymnast, drummer, taper - a trade he learned from our dad. He was an overall quiet guy. He, like our father, spoke volumes in silence. He was a loyal and steadfast believer in the Lord and all his teachings - something he learned from our mom. In between, though, you could always count on him for a good joke. His sense of humor was infectious, especially when he started to chuckle (like only he could) before he even finished telling it!

As a student, I would always turn to him for help with the "Math Problem of the Week." Only the really excelled students would come back in on Monday with the correct solution. Needless to say, with his help, I became one of those students. He taught me how to look at the problem, come to fully understand what it was asking, look past the tricks, and finally solve it--breaking it down piece-by-piece, until it fit like a puzzle. I came to the realization today, in writing this, that this is much the way he navigated life.

Above all, Frank prided himself on being a loving husband and devoted father. I know he modeled that concept to his children and am happy to know that our sense of family will continue to live on throughout the generations.

We are many things to many people as we journey through life, but Frank truly knew the importance of love. Before leaving this world, he was able to take inventory of his personal life and feel satisfied - a sign of a life well lived. He will do well in Heaven as he joins those who have gone before us - most recently our beloved parents. I hope they are having a marvelous reunion!
