“ When I got out of the Navy in 1963, I went to the R. I. unemployment office to see if there were any jobs that needed filling. They had an opening at the Frank Morrow co. which was not too far from where I lived. I was hired and started the next day. The department boss showed me the ropes. At the lunch bell. I found a place to sit and eat. A guy from the shipping dept. came and said hi, are you the new guy? He said come with me, all the guys eat down here in the shipping dept. I thought that was very nice of him. That was the first time I met Hank. He always worked whenever he could pick up some extra pay. Sometimes he would ask me to help if it was a 2 man job. Hank knew how to do just about any job, and if he didn't, he would figure it out. Working with him on my days off, taught me so much. Now I can shingle a roof, apply vinyl siding, do basic carpentry, paint inside or out. and use all the power tools. We got to be great friends and did many things with our family's. The world would be a much better place if there were a lot more "Hank Belanger's in this world. ART & DEBBIE FALCONE

“ Lucille, although I didn't know your husband, Hank, I know your grief is overshadowed by the joy in knowing that he is now in the presence of the Lord he served during his lifetime here on earth.
