“ Our son is now 17. We speak of you often. Just the other night I shared a memory with him of the two of us that he never knew. He's come such a long way since the last time I posted. He has had his struggles but I'm telling you I know you'd be so proud of the young man he's becoming. And he's the spitting image of you now. We miss you Jay.

“ Our boy turned 13 today. He's a teenager now. I desperately need your guidance Jay. Chase has come a long way in grieving you. But I know he still misses you more than he'll let on. Please keep watching over him okay? I know you have been. And I really think it's helping. He gets a little stronger every day. He's like you like that..
