

Quincy Adams

October 11, 1969 - November 17, 2021

John Quincy Adams, age 51, of Williston, Florida, passed away on November 17, 2021.

Quincy was one of the few true, pure cowboys left. He could rope, ride, herd steers, train horses. He could do it all and was all self-taught. His family often referred to him as the “horse whisperer.” He passed on all his cowboy ways to his children. He and his wife started a horse training business Q Bar J Thoroughbreds, LLC. Quincy never met a stranger and was a friend to everyone he met.

Quincy was born in Jacksonville, Florida to Mildred and George Adams. He is survived by his wife, Jennifer Adams; children, Candace McIntire (Adams), Colt Adams, Cheyenne Adams, and Cash Adams; grandchildren, Kynzee Campbell, Ezekiel McIntire, Kenna Adams, Eliza McIntire, and Adaline Adams; brother, James “Jimmy” Gladwell and his wife, Martha; and sister, Sally Holton and her husband, Ed; and several nieces, nephews, aunts, uncles, and cousins. He is preceded in death by his father George Adams and sisters, Mary Harris (Gladwell) and Monica Cain (Gladwell).
