“ Good Bye for Now
Written and submitted by Camilyah Johnson
Buxton on 4/22/23

Dedicated to loving Auntie Joyce Parnell and
In memory of my loving Mom Olivia Johnson (almost one year gone 4/27/22)

Good bye is a term most of us use so randomly, so loosing, however, with great intentions.

“Good bye for now” is what we really mean in most cases.

Dictionary

Data from Oxford Languages good·bye

[,gʊdˈbaɪ]

EXCLAMATION

used to express good wishes when parting or at the end of a conversation.

We say ‘Bye, Bye” to our loved ones as they scurry off to work, school or an appointment.

On a daily basis; We say, “See you later” to our bosses, co-workers, church members, family and friends.

We say it so quickly without even a blink in our eyes.

Who knows when will be the last time you will see someone on earth? No one but God. See we sometimes have an expected date for births, ie. “The baby is to arrive on this date or that” we stand awaiting for the new arrival. However, we were really never granted an “End Date or expiration date” of when we will leave or those around us, or those in our family and friend network will leave the earth. So we continue to say” Good bye or Good bye for now in which I want to express.

As a person who believes in the after life through my belief in Jesus Christ, His death, His burial and His resurrection I can truly say to anyone with that declaration, "Good bye for now". We all think that all will happily make it to the other side, meaning through Heavens gates. Well, I must pause and say until God declares it fully 'Well done'. I will say, "Good bye for now" meaning in faith; I will see you on the other side.

*Love always,
Camilyah*

“ Instead of flowers, the family would prefer donations or a simple card.
