“ My mother was the most beautiful, loving, caring, amazing person on this earth. She was the one dealing with the thousands of things that life was throwing at her on the daily, the one living with more than you could ever imagine constantly, and still caring for me and my sister. She was the one you could go to and she'd be ready with open arms to give you all the love you needed. I still can't process that she gone. I love you, mommy.

Please always remember your mom loved you and Layla more than words could ever express. All of the challenges she faced in her life was done with thoughts of spending time with her girls. As a very proud mother she would always start off by telling me how smart her Lilliana was and how well she was going to do in this world. I'm sure she's still doing the same as she is watching down from above.

Thinking of Julie on her birthday and just found this and want to tell her girls how FIERCELY your momma loved you both. Not a day went by when she didn't tell a story about how smart Lilliana was, what a good writer she was, how sweet and caring she was, or how proud she was of both her and Layla who was the other spoke of her eye. She was a remarkable and strong woman taken far too soon, but I hope her girls forever feel her love. ❤️
