“ As the days pass, the memories and flashbacks increase reminding me of things I hadn't had top of mind for years. As I walk through my house and my mind it is apparent to me the influence MOM's life has had in mine. As the most resilient woman I have ever known, I will remember most the lesson I've learned from her by example, to use creativity to find peace, self confidence and show love to others. Her spirit will live on into future generations through those she has touched in our present.

“ MOM is a three letter word that is full of love, commitment and endurance that is understood more as the child grows and becomes an adult. Thank you for being my Mom. My memories with you live on in my heart and mind. I love you Mom.

“ I spent the upper years of elementary school in a warm, friendly neighborhood in Elgin, Illinois, and one of the kindest parts of that neighborhood was Mrs. Brosh. She was not only the mom of my friends, a genius with a crochet hook, and a creative force, especially with Girl Scouts; she was also a truly nice person. We were all better for having known her. My heart goes out to Linda, Dianne, Laura, Jackie, and David.
