“ You would have been 52 this year, mom. I miss you terribly and not a day goes by that I do not think of you. I see you in my reflection and hear you in my voice. I love you.

“ Baby I still miss you. I will always have a place in my heart for you. I think of you all the time. We just started to have a life together. But I know that you are no longer in any pain. Someday I will be reunited with you. Love always. KAY

“ It has almost been two years since you died, mom. I would be lying if I said that it has been easy for me to deal with. I would also be lying if I said that I made your final days easier to get through. I wasn't there for you like I should have been. And for that, I am forever sorry. But, I want you to know that I plan on making that up to you by going into the medical field and helping other people in ways that I just wasn't ready to when you were sick. Mom, I never stopped loving you, not even for a second. Even if my actions made you believe that I didn't love you... I always have. You sometimes told me that I was selfish at times because of the things that I did or said; you were right. You often were. But I hope that wherever you are, you are able to watch me and see how far I've really come. I also hope that you can see how the people you surrounded yourself with in life really are, deep down. I know you are better where you are, because there is no pain for you anymore. ily.
