“ Dear Dorothy and Family~~ Phil was so fortunate to have family and friends by his side during his most difficult journey in life. Your devotion is a testimony of the love you shared for so many years. For Christians, passing through death is really a birth into a new and better world and those left behind should not grieve as if there is no hope--life is surely changed, but not taken away. Phil lives on~~~in a world beautiful beyond our imagination. He waits for the day when he'll welcome you with joy. Tears of sorrow are ones of homesickness and longing for Phil, but it is WE who are away from "home"--not Phil! He has entered into an eternal home with his Lord and Savior. As night fell upon Phil, and the dawn followed, we could not help but think of how wonderful Phil's first day in Paradise was. It is with certain hope that the lasting love and comfort of God's healing care will be with you all. Phil was the most "gentle" man and we are honored to have been his friend. He touched so many lives and he remains with you, walking beside you each day... never more than just a thought away. Please know we are praying for all of you during this difficult time. May you find comfort in the days and weeks ahead. Vic and Suzanne Vickery
