“ I met Robbie years ago when I was an Arts and Crafts volunteer at MDA summer camp. Where you saw Joe Baker hanging out, you usually saw Robbie, too! There was so much fun at camp and those who attended (whether patient, staff, or volunteer) would form friendships that would last throughout the years. The last time I talked to Robbie via Facebook was around October of 2018, and he told me he had a lot of surgeries since the last time I saw him. I said I hoped things were better for him now, and he said "Well im 48 and still walking so things r good". I would not have thought he would be gone so quickly. I am so very sorry for your loss. Robbie definitely made us laugh at camp, and those memories will be cherished for years to come.

“ I have no regrets and no guilt. But I have a universe full of tears and sadness. We did it together, what a team we were and I would've loved more years. However I know how sick you were getting and how hard you fought to win. But, in the end you, you told cancer to suck it. You went out with laughter and love. You had a joke or funny story right until the end. And you got that F Coke . I love you Robby so much. I miss you already.
