“ I have such happy memories of going out to Connecticut and staying at Debbie and Frank's house as a kid. Tracy was one of my cool older cousins. The kind that I looked up to and wanted to be like.

As adults, I always enjoyed the chance to visit with her when I went to Florida. I was hoping that when we moved down, I would be able to see more of her, since visits with out of state family always feel so few and far between. Honestly, she was one of my favorite cousins. I loved being around her...She was just that kind of person. She had a quality that I can't put into words, but those who loved her all know exactly what I'm trying to say!... If you met her, you couldn't dislike her. It wasn't possible. (a lot like her mother!) And that is a quality we should all strive for.

Some people just make it seem effortless.

In my opinion, she is gone much too soon, but I cannot possibly fathom God's plan in my current state of being human. But I do find comfort knowing she is with her grandparents (and mine, and our great grandparents) in heaven!
