“ My deepest sympathy to Verl's family. Verl was one of the kindest people I met when I first started at Stanley Consultants in 1973. I will always remember his smile and quiet manner.

“ I was privileged to work with Verl in the 70's when I was just beginning to work with our rural electric clients. The things he taught me, and the way he taught me, are still guiding and helping me as I continue to work with many of the client organizations that Verl was familiar with.

“ I was very sad to hear of Verl's death, and you all have my deepest sympathy. Verl was my first boss at Stanley Consultants, and I worked as his secretary until his retirement. I can always remember him telling me when giving me a tape to transcribe, "Type what I mean, not what I say." He was an extremely kind and patient person with a quiet sense of humor. I don't know of anyone who worked for him that didn't hold him in the highest esteem. One of the engineers here said this morning that he was as much a symbol of Stanley Consultants as was Max Stanley, and I believe that is very true. We are all the better for having know him.

“ I was privileged to have Verl as my first mentor at Stanley Consultants. His thoroughness, professionalism and kindness have been a guiding light to my nearly 40 years working with and for rural electric cooperatives. Whenever in doubt about anything, I would just ask myself 'what would Verl have done?' Don and Mary Kay Brunner Pine Bluffs, Wyoming

“ Verl was my first boss at Stanley Consultants. He was a very kind and patient man and taught me a lot about the "real" world of engineering. I stayed in touch with Verl over the years and was especially pleased when he showed up for a visit to our office. He will remain in my memory as a fine gentleman, a strong christian and a person who always had something good to say about a person or event. His legacy with many of our clients lives on. He lived a full live so he deserves a peaceful rest. My condolences to his family.
