“ I'm so sorry to hear about Bill. I'll never forget him as my boss at American Airlines. He had a great sense of humor and always said what he meant plainly. He was very well respected throughout the industry and had many lessons to impart. 5

“ Sending my sympathy for the loss of a great man. Bill hired me at AA in 1986, and he was simply the best boss - leader - visionary I have ever worked for. He was highly respected in the industry, and had an uncanny ability to understand people and bring out the best in his employees. Once, I was in his office on the 5th floor - big, big windows behind his desk. I had made some silly mistake and was upset, crying. Bill was talking me through the issue. Then he looked at me and said "What's the worst could happen Fitzmorris, you think I'm gonna throw you out the window or something?" Maybe you had to be there, but it was just quintessential Bill. I still think of his words and advices, on lots of topics, to this day. As do many more.
